RESIDENTIAL
EXCELLENCE
IN DESIGN

AWARDS

We are so honored to be selected for the lux^e magazine red awards. The presentation of the awards took place last night in New York City, and I was so happy to be there among so many talented designers, architects and landscape architects—people from all over the United States. The jury for making the award selections were designers Holly Hunt, George Wiseman and Kathryn Ireland, all designers whose work and careers i admire and respect. Of course without having talented and committed people working beside me in my office—none of this is possible. Part of our awards last night are thanks to them and their hard work. And so too, without having clients that believe in our vision for their projects, and without their collaboration in their projects—we could not make our ideas real.

Proud to announce we are a

Regional Winner, Contemporary Interior Design

This contemporary Paradise Valley, Arizona, dwelling is a great example of strong architectural design with interiors that add warmth. The floors, millwork and Douglas-fir ceiling were selected for their clean attitude. Furnishings were kept simple in harmony with the architectural context.

Regional Winner, Kitchen

This galley kitchen and breakfast nook, in Paradise Valley, Arizona, are warm and inviting thanks to a restrained palette and rich surfaces: cerused-oak millwork, Texas limestone rubble walls and fumed-oak plank flooring. Large windows, a tall glass door and a skylight, from which gleaming copper cookware cleverly descends, usher in sunlight.
